Recipes!

To make the CMC gel:

Boil some water, mix a pint of this water with 4-5 tablespoons of CMC powder, stir, there will be some lumps but do the best you can. Leave lightly covered for 24 hours, it will be a thick and relatively clear gel.

To make the Glass clay:

Mix 2:1 glass powder and CMC gel. I use a freezer baggie to mash it around. Add a little more gel if you need to work in all the powder. Fire around 1350-1400°.

To make liquid stringer:

Take some of your glass clay and put in another baggie. I add Klyr-fire little by little to make it a little more liquid. Now snip the end off your baggie and pipe it into a squeeze bottle. Fire at 1350° to keep the line, or 1450° for full fuse. Imagine the line as cloisonné, and fill the inside with frits or powders.
